

ORTHODOXGIRL

When Zoey meets Azel sparks—of the spiritual kind—fly.

Jeryl Parade

ORTHODOXGIRL

OrthodoxGirl is a romance film about Zoey a secular Jewish woman and Azel an Ultra-Orthodox man.

Amazing projects such as Unorthodox and Disobedience depict the beauty of breaking free from a restrictive world. OrthodoxGirl shows the other side of that desire. Zoey says she yearns for something—someone—spiritual. Nothing Fails by Madonna conveys the tone of OrthodoxGirl: “I’m not religious, but I feel such love, makes me want to pray.”

Comparable: Nobody Wants This romantic comedy about an agnostic woman and a rabbi on Netflix

CHARACTERS

ZOEY

In mourning for her dad Zoey says Kaddish in an Orthodox synagogue where, as a secular Jew, she does not fit in.

AZEL

An Ultra-Orthodox Jew. In Hasidic black coat and immaculate white shirt Azel is described by onlookers as “hot”.

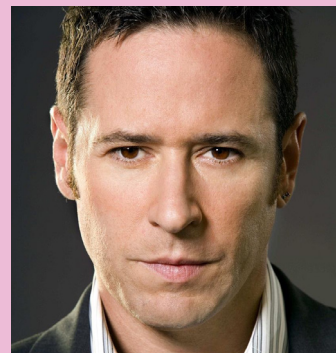

SHOSHANA

Modern Orthodox woman who aggressively courts Azel and is Zoey’s rival

BRIDGET AND TIFFANY

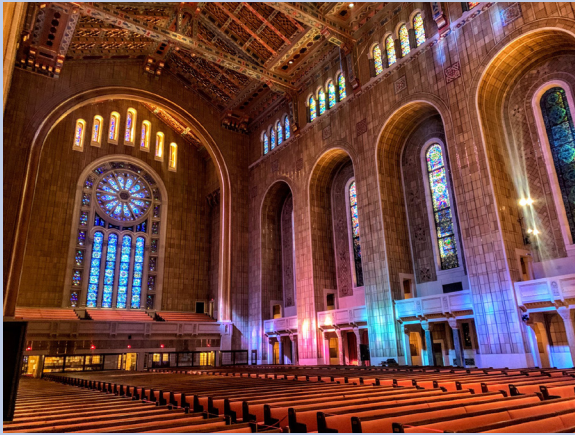

2 call girls who witness the meet cute of Zoey and Azel. They become Zoey’s confidantes and cheerleaders.

AZEL'S DAD

Reform Jew who views Azel’s new devoutness as a rebellion

DIALOGUE

SHOSHANA

He's a returnee.

ZOEY

What's a returnee?

SHOSHANA

A heretofore secular Jew who has recently discovered their religion. Azel scares the other eligible Orthodox women. He could revert to the profane world at any time. Not me. I'm brave.

ZOEY

I came to say Kaddish but— (sobs)

AZEL

You could not get the words out.

ZOEY

No.

Azel touches Zoey to console her. Then he catches himself and retreats.

AZEL

Forgive me.

ZOEY

For what?

AZEL

I do not touch women.

Zoey cracks a smile.

ZOEY

Not ever?
